Our Father in heaven, hallowed be your name. Your kingdom come, your will be done, on earth as it is in heaven. God, it is again that we come thanking you for this day and for the men and women who are part of this body of the Texas House of Representatives. We are so grateful for the work that this body does on behalf of the citizens of Texas. God, continue to shine your light of wisdom and knowledge upon each and every one of them as they are making decisions, and please allow them to remember the people whom they serve. Dear God, please give the men and women of this body the courage to do what is right for all Texans at all times. Grant them the strength to stand when others would fall and the integrity to be heard when others would remain quiet. And again,

God, touch the minds and hearts of this chosen body of men and women who serve the citizens of the State of Texas. It is in your holy and righteous name we pray. Amen.

The speaker recognized Representative J. Rodriguez who led the house in the pledges of allegiance to the United States and Texas flags.

On motion of Representative Wu, the names of all the members of the house were added to HR 1490 as signers thereof.

INTRODUCTION OF GUESTS

The chair recognized Representative Oliverson who introduced family members and friends of Assistant Chief Deputy Clint Greenwood, speaking as follows:

As a freshman member, this is only my second memorial resolution. I know that we all have memorial resolutions from time to time to honor Texans who lived in our district and around our great state. But I'm sure, like me, I know many of you probably wish that we didn't have to. And it's not because we don't believe that these individuals aren't worthy, but it's because we wish they were still with us. And honestly, that's exactly how I feel right now. We're here to honor the memory of Assistant Chief Deputy Clint Greenwood. He was a husband, a father, an attorney, and a law enforcement officer. He was a leader in his community, and he was a man who spent his life fighting for justice. Unfortunately, on April 3, 2017, he lost his life in the line of duty. And members, I know this isn't the first memorial resolution that we've had for a fallen peace officer, and I know it won't be the last, but it doesn't make it any easier. These folks put their lives on the line for us every day. I think sometimes we go through our lives and our day, and we just fail to appreciate what a tremendous sacrifice that is, for them to be out there between us and things out there that would seek to harm us. I know we had a long night last night, but I'm hopeful that we might come together as a body this morning here at the dais and take an opportunity to honor the life of Clint Greenwood in the presence of his family, his friends, and his colleagues.

As you heard, he was a Houston native. He earned a bachelor's degree and played on the football team for one of the most prestigious universities in our state and certainly in my community, Rice University. He also attended and received his law degree from a college that I think many of you went to or are familiar with, South Texas College of Law. And although he was as a young man by every measure brilliant—could have gone anywhere, could have done anything—he set his sights on serving his community by serving in the world of law enforcement. His incredible career saw him working at the Harris County District Attorney's Office and the Harris County Sheriff's Office. He even had an independent law practice that provided legal services to other law enforcement officers who were in need of legal defense. His dedication to his job and the integrity he brought to the law enforcement community garnered him a position as chief deputy with the Harris County Precinct 3 Constable's Office earlier this year. For most people, that would have been a résumé to last a lifetime, but for Clint Greenwood, he just did more than that. He was an instructor at the Houston Police Academy, the Harris County Sheriff's Office Academy, the DPS Academy, and many other agencies throughout this country. He also served with the Houston Police Officers Association, CLEAT, and the Houston Police Officers' Union.

I think this picture paints itself. He was a man who was truly dedicated in his life to the pursuit of justice, and he leaves a legacy that every single member in this chamber can try to embrace and honor every single day. It was interesting, as I was talking with his family and his friends this morning—he also was a man who embraced great humility. In fact, his family told me that this might even be somewhat embarrassing for him, to be honored in this way. Not because he didn't deserve it, but because he was the kind of guy who went about his business, living his life, doing his job, with a high degree of integrity, to the best of his ability. He didn't ask for and didn't expect to receive any accolades or any praise for the good work that he was doing. He was doing it because it was the right thing to do.

Members, in the gallery today, we are joined by Major Rick Larkin, Lieutenant Isaac Villarreal, and Deputy Shirley Morrison, all of whom worked closely with Clint at Precinct 3 Constable's Office. On the dais today, we are joined by Clint's wife, Leatha, and his four children, Charles, Timothy, Catherine, and Lauren, along with Captain Kirk Bonsal, one of his close friends in the line of duty. I think that the biggest legacy that Clint leaves behind is his family, and I think—as I know it is for me, it probably is for you—this is the deepest part of my sorrow. Leatha, you and your children should be proud of Clint. He served his state with the highest capacity, and his legacy will be defined by his integrity, his humility, and his service—and by you, his family. So members, I ask this body to come together today and honor Chief Greenwood and the sacrifice that he's made.

I brought with me a bowl of blue wristbands. Those of you who have worked with me and interacted with me here in the house know that I always have one of these on; it never comes off. And it just simply reminds us to say a prayer for our law enforcement officers as we go about our day and they go about their work keeping us safe, in recognition of the hazards and the dangers that they take on on our behalf. And so I would ask you as a show of unity, if you feel so led, to please come to the dais and take one and wear it today in honor of Chief Greenwood and the many members of our law enforcement community who made the ultimate sacrifice to keep us safe in our communities.

Representative Wu addressed the house, speaking as follows:

You know, when I was in law school, one of my most favorite professors once said something that has stuck with me for my entire career, and that is: All you have in this world is your reputation. I had the fortune of serving with Clint when he and I were both in the Harris County District Attorney's Office. We weren't friends; we didn't know each other well. I was just a little baby prosecutor, you know, barely wet behind the ears. He was the chief of the Police Integrity Unit. His reputation was so stellar that he was put in charge of investigating and prosecuting wrongdoings by fellow officers. That was this man's reputation. The reputation of Clint Greenwood in the Harris County District Attorney's Office was that of a mountain. That he was immovable. He was incorruptible. He was unbreakable. And that is the man that I knew. That is the man that I passed in the hallway. And that is the man that this wonderful family gave us. And I would be remiss if I didn't stand here and say, on behalf of the Harris County District Attorney's Office family and those who are now former district attorneys, thank you to the Greenwood family for loaning us this wonderful man. We miss him, and we love him.
